Pastor's Lines

Dear Church Family;

I called one of my heroes the other day. My mentor pastor, Dr. John Sullivan was on my mind, and I just had to talk to him. Dr. Sullivan was our pastor when Jo and I attended Broadmoor Baptist Church in Shreveport. We met in the singles department and "the rest is history". Dr. Sullivan married us and when God began to call me into the ministry from a miserable job at Xerox, Dr. Sullivan was there to guide me through. He gave me my first job in ministry (Minister of Recreation, LOL) as I started Seminary. I had a wonderful time serving under this great man. After a couple of years I moved on to New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary in New Orleans and he moved on to Florida to be the Executive Director of the Florida Baptist Convention. He retired from there and is serving as Senior Adult Pastor at First Baptist Jacksonville.

When I called him, it was like we had been together the day before. He is 83 now and still very active in ministry. He affirmed me for the work I was doing and reminded me that he had actually preached a revival in our church years ago (I wish I could get him to come again). It was so rewarding to hear my mentor encourage me in the work of the ministry. I jokingly told him that I wear two bracelets on my wrist. One is WWJD, (What Would Jesus Do?) and WWSD (What Would Dr. Sullivan Do?). I don't wear bracelets of course, but I do often think of the advice my mentor gave me as a young preacher years ago. Mentors change lives.

Are you mentoring someone? Are you giving guidance to someone younger than you? Are you investing in the next generation? The best investment you can make, is the investment in other people. We have so many people around here who are clamoring for someone to guide them into a great, lifelong relationship with Jesus. Who are you going to help today?

Blessings, Dr. j
