Pastor's Lines

Dear Church Family,

I had to go to a meeting in Mer Rouge, Louisiana this week. Raise your hand if you have EVER heard of Mer Rouge? LOL! I didn't think so. Mer Rouge is above Bastrop, almost to Arkansas. You drive and drive through farm land on the outskirts of Bastrop and then you arrive in Mer Rouge. The town is surprisingly quaint for an out of the way place. Yards are well kept, houses look nice. The little downtown is thriving. And as I drove around the town looking for the church, I wondered, "What's the deal about Mer Rouge?" I got to the church, with its red bricks and white steeple. It was a scaled down version of our church. It was a well-kept, beautiful church.

I met the pastor at the door, and asked Br. Casey to tell me about the church. Br. Casey told me that the church had gone down to about 20 members. The church was not going to make it much longer. Br. Casey also pastors a church in Bastrop, so he offered to be their pastor. The churches shared some members for a while, and the congregation has regrown to over 100 on Sunday. Now that is a feel good story if there ever was one.

We concluded our chat as the rest of the group gathered for the meeting. I began to listen to people talk about the town. They began to tell me that the town is known for (of all things) its ice cream. "There is a little drive-in diner in the middle of the town that serves the best ice cream!" The recipe is a secret. The owner makes up 5 gallon batches of the ice cream and delivers it to the store to be frozen into this creamy concoction. "People come from all over to experience this ice cream." Everybody had a great time telling me the "good news" about this ice cream.

I have often wondered why people find it difficult to talk about the good news of Jesus. People will clam up and become fearful about talking about Jesus, but at the same time will be free, free to talk about ice cream. Let's be challenged to give just as much energy to the good news about Jesus as we do about any other thing. O that people would "come from miles around" to experience the good news at church.

Blessings, Dr. j

Ps Now if I could just get that secret recipe!!!

PACKING COLLECTION BOXES

You are invited to help with the packing of boxes in cartons during collection week of November 18-25 in the Family Life Center. When they are boxed up, we will take them to Lake Charles to be put on a tractor trailer and shipped to Dallas for processing before they are shipped overseas.

Contact me by email, text or phone if you would like to help. The amount of time you can give is not a problem no matter how much or little.
