Pastor's Lines

Dear Church Family,

I have been grumbling a bit lately. I AM NOT a big proponent of the Daylight Savings Time change. I mean, who came up with this crazy idea? (Lyndon Johnson enacted the plan in 1966) When you look at the history, it seems that a country or two in Europe decided that changing the clock would save electricity and other countries copied the original plan. Now we are 50 years later, waking up at 3:30am, because our bodies cannot adjust as quickly as the hands of the clock!!!

And then, and then.... As if that wasn't enough, Thanksgiving is LATE This year. I mean, (mutter, mutter) Thanksgiving is ALWAYS the third week of the year, with one more week till the December frenzy hits. But for some reason, (I am sure someone can explain it), Thanksgiving weekend ends on December 1. NNOOOOOOO!!!!

We have scheduled our Lottie Moon Christmas Banquet on December 1. Is that a good weekend? The speaker is coming. Hope there is a good attendance. Can we change it? No! We will just have to do the best we can.....!!

And with all my muttering going on, (and nothing is changed). I went to the Louisiana Baptist Convention. I was sitting in the display area when this lady from IMB approached my area. She was not specifically coming to see me, but as she approached I noticed her nametag. Her name is Stella Joy. I realized rather quickly that Stella Joy is our Lottie Moon Christmas Banquet Speaker. Phyllis has been telling me about her!! Stella JOY!!! I jumped up, introduced myself, and we had an excellent preview conversation. Stella JOY certainly lives her name (by the way, that is a nick name as she cannot reveal her real name because of the area where she lives and does mission work, WOW!)

After she left, I kept seeing that name tag, "Stella JOY" in my head. Joy, Joy. JOY. "Ok God, I get it! I have been muttering, when I should be having JOY!" So what if I am up early. Pray more. So what if Thanksgiving is late. It just gives me more time to be ready. So what if the banquet might be better off scheduled on another date. The date is fixed and you are going to bring JOY to the service.

Uh, Sorry God!?

Blessings,
D. j
