I started working in the children's church ministry when I was a youth. My best friend's parents, Marlo and Ron, started it up. It was some of the best Sundays I had. I knew from a very young age I would always be involved with kids, and this was the perfect start for me. After a while my friend's family moved away and others took over, including my mom. I stayed to help but eventually stopped when I got married and started having kids of my own.

Fast forward a few years and I was asked to take over as the leader along with my husband, Chase. We prayed about it and accepted. I love every minute of working with the kids. Sometimes, you can see their eyes light up when it all clicks together. I love the way they love each other. You can almost always see an older kid helping with a younger one. The younger ones ban together like their own little tribe and dance their hearts out.

It's so fun to see them dance and sing to the songs we play. Their hearts for God and hunger for the word are evident when it's time for questions.

Church News

They surprise me with their maturity sometimes when they pray for others or share things that are hard. Being in this ministry truly fills your cup in so many ways. It has also made us get involved in Sunday School again, and attend church almost every Sunday.

We do however, miss hearing our amazing pastor preach, so a volunteer to teach the class every now and then would be much appreciated! ;)
